

Black Roses

You look at me with a fixed gaze,
You cast a spell on me,
I can't resist and go with you,
The desire is overwhelming.
It washes me away,
Sweet words of betrayal,
Write our story.

Stop denying bring it to an end.

Black roses I lay on your grave,
Fantasizing that you'd be with me,
Black roses I lay on your grave,
Unspoken words buzzing in my head.

Those you love, you lie to their faces,
Day after day, the guilt weights on your shoulders,
You try with all your might to forget,
But it always catches up with you.

Stop denying bring it to an end.

Black roses I lay on your grave,
Fantasizing that you'd be with me,
Black roses I lay on your grave,
Unspoken words buzzing in my head.

Seasons pass by you remember the moments,
The weight in your hand when you slammed,
The emptiness you felt when you lay him to rest,
And how you wish for a happy ending.

Stop denying bring it to an end.

Black roses I lay on your grave,
Fantasizing that you'd be with me,
Black roses I lay on your grave,
Unspoken words buzzing in my head.

Stop denying bring it to an end.

Black roses I lay on your grave,
Fantasizing that you'd be with me,
Black roses I lay on your grave,
Unspoken words buzzing in my head.

Black roses I lay on your grave,
Fantasizing that you'd be with me,
Black roses I lay on your grave,
Unspoken words buzzing in my head.